

VIOLENCE AGAINST WOMEN ACT (VAWA)
and the Housing Choice Voucher (HCV) Program

The Violence Against Women Act (VAWA) provides certain rights and protections to Housing Choice Voucher assisted tenants and members of their households

Protections Against Eviction or Termination of Assistance

1. Under VAWA, if an applicant or participant in the HCV program is otherwise eligible, the fact that the applicant or participant is or has been a victim of domestic violence, dating violence, or stalking (as these terms are defined in VAWA) is not an appropriate basis for denial of program assistance or for denial of admission.
2. VAWA also states that an incident or incidents of actual or threatened domestic violence, dating violence, or stalking:
 - (a) will not be considered to be a “serious or repeated” violation of the lease if the tenant is the victim of the incident or incidents of actual or threatened domestic violence, dating violence or stalking; and
 - (b) shall not be good cause for terminating the tenant’s assistance, tenancy, or occupancy rights if the tenant is the victim of such actual or threatened domestic violence, dating violence or stalking.

This means that the tenant may not be evicted, nor may his or her assistance be terminated, based on such an incident or incidents of actual or threatened domestic violence, dating violence or stalking where the tenant is the victim.

3. In addition, although a tenant may be evicted for certain types of criminal activity as provided in the lease, and the housing agency may terminate a household’s assistance in such cases, VAWA states that a tenant may not be evicted, or tenancy or occupancy rights terminated if the criminal activity is:
 - (a) directly related to domestic violence, dating violence, or stalking; and
 - (b) engaged in by a member of the household, or any guest, or another person under the tenant’s control; and
 - (c) the tenant or an affiliated individual is the victim or threatened victim of this criminal activity.

Portability to a New Location

HCV households in good standing may move to another location after one year of assistance and their assistance will follow them. However, the law does not allow this if the family was in violation of its lease when it moved. VAWA creates an exception where a family has complied with all other HCV requirements but moved out in violation of the lease in order to protect the health or safety of an individual who:

- (a) was or is the victim of domestic violence, dating violence or stalking, and
- (b) reasonably believed he or she was imminently threatened by harm from further violence if he or she remained in the assisted dwelling unit

In these situations, the family will be allowed to port to a new jurisdiction even though it broke the lease by moving out.

Certification

If a tenant is notified that their tenancy will be terminated based on a matter that is an incident or incidents of domestic violence, dating violence, or stalking, and the tenant claims protection against eviction or termination of assistance under VAWA, the landlord may request the tenant to deliver a certification as to the incidents in question, although this is not required. If required, the landlord will provide a HUD-approved certification form and the tenant will then have 14 business days from receipt to complete and return it. Or they may chose to deliver another form of certification as described below. If the tenant does not do this within the time allowed, he or she will not have protection under VAWA and termination of tenancy and eviction of the tenant without reference to the VAWA protections may proceed.

The tenant may certify either by:

- (a) completing and delivering a HUD–approved certification form mentioned above or
- (b) providing documentation signed by an employee, agent, or volunteer of a victim service provider, an attorney, or a medical professional from whom the victim (the tenant or another member of the tenant’s immediate family) has sought assistance in addressing domestic violence, dating violence, or stalking or the effects of the abuse. (This certification must be sworn under penalty of perjury); or
- (c) producing and delivering, a Federal, State, tribal, territorial, or local police or court record.

Confidentiality

Information provided relating to the fact that the tenant or another member of the tenant’s household is a victim of domestic violence, dating violence, or stalking must be be retained by the landlord or housing authority in confidence. This information may not be shared or disclosed by you or your agents or employees without the tenant’s consent except as necessary for an eviction proceeding or as otherwise required by law.

Limitations

VAWA provides certain limitations and clarifications concerning tenants’ rights as described above. In particular nothing contained in VAWA:

1. prevents terminating tenancy and evicting, for any violation not involving domestic violence, dating violence, or stalking, for which VAWA provide the protections described above.

2. prevents terminating tenancy and evicting where it can be demonstrated that “an actual and imminent threat to other tenants or those employed at or providing service to the property.” Where such a threat can be demonstrated, the tenant will not be protected from termination of tenancy and eviction by VAWA.
3. limits the ability to comply with court orders addressing rights of access to or control of the property. This includes civil protection orders entered for the protection of the victim or relating to distribution or possession of property.
4. supersedes any Federal, State or local law that provides greater protections than VAWA.

Owner or Manager Right to Remove Perpetrator of Domestic of Violence

VAWA also creates a new authority under Federal law that allows an owner or manager of a HCV-assisted property to evict, remove, or terminate assistance to any individual tenant or lawful occupant of the property who engages in criminal acts of physical violence against the tenant or an affiliated individual. This may be done without evicting or taking any other action adverse to the other occupants.
